AMONG OURSELVES

--Orin Cornett has been asked to lead an institute, "Society for College and University Planning," this June for 40 college and university presidents regarding long range planning techniques. Funded by a grant from the Exxon Corporation, a planning meeting was held last week in Princeton, New Jersey.

--Wishes for a speedy recovery go to Stan Kelly and Mary Lou Holden. Stan is currently in Washington Adventist Hospital, Takoma Park, Md. Mary Lou is now resting at home following hospitalization last week.

--Our apologies to Walker Jacobs, whose name we mistakenly omitted as superintendent of building operations in last week's article on the Physical Plant.

--Welcome aboard to:

A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

The availability of blood for a needed transfusion can often be a matter of life or death for a patient.

There is something almost all of us can do -- be a blood donor. Giving blood is a painless and safe procedure.

The American Red Cross will be sponsoring a blood drive on campus January 29, from 10 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

Please give. Not only will you help someone in critical need of blood; but your donation is your own insurance policy in the event you or any member of your immediate family needs blood.

For additional information, contact Marian Dickson at 543.

DEAFWATCH

A formal petition was filed Monday with the Federal Communications Commission by three George Washington University law students and their local counsel, Glenn A. Goldberg, to require that all televised emergency bulletins be broadcast in visual, as well as aural, form for hearing impaired viewers. The petition was announced at a press conference held Monday at the George Washington University Law Center.

The three students are chairpersons of DEAFWATCH (Demanding Equal Access to Facts and Warnings Aired on Television for Citizens Who Are Hearing Impaired), a legal action organization concerned with the problems of the deaf community.

Appearing at the press conference and joining DEAFWATCH as co-petitioners were representatives of the NAD and DEAF-PRIDE.

In 1970, the FCC issued a public notice to television stations which suggested when broadcasting emergency information that this information be presented visually for hearing impaired citizens. In its petition, DEAFWATCH points out that broadcasters have failed to do so on a voluntary basis and indicates that it is now time for the FCC to initiate rule making proceedings in order to meet the needs of the hearing impaired.

AROUND AND ABOUT

--Each department and office has received copies of a statement entitled, "Planning for National Leadership." In order to accept the challenges of national leadership Gallaudet must make some changes in the central administration. All staff and faculty personnel should request a copy of this statement from their budget unit heads. Any staff member is invited to react to the statement by sending a letter to the President's Office by February 15.

--The Office of Demographic Studies is conducting the 8th annual meeting of its National Advisory Committee of the Annual Survey of Hearing Impaired Children and Youth on January 27 and 28. In order to acquaint participants as well as members of the Gallaudet community with the activities of the Office of Demographic Studies, there will be a Data Presentation on Monday, January 27, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

--The staff of the Thornberry Hearing and Speech Center conducted a Hearing Conservation Workshop for nurses, speech pathologists and teachers from the Alexandria City Schools last Wednesday.

--The Library will move its circulation desk and reserve book materials into a new addition located in the north end of the building on January 24. Kieth Wright and Lee Putnam will also have their offices in the new building. Once the move is completed, all persons will enter and exit the Library through the doors of the new building.
